DARLINGTON

Welcome to Darlington – this is your guide to leisure, dining, shopping, transport links, parking and things to do in Darlington! There is a real buzz in the town where vibrant street theatre sits hand in hand with the attractive Quaker architecture. It's a contemporary market town where people can discover what makes the town special. You can also download this guide from: <https://www.enjoydarlington.com>

HISTORY

Darlington began as an Anglo-Saxon settlement and the town owes much of its development to the influence of local Quaker families in the Georgian and Victorian era. It is often referred to as 'Darlo'.

Darlington is an historic market town and built in 1183, St Cuthbert's Church, is one of the most important early English churches in the north of England, but the oldest church in the town is St. Andrew's Church built around 1125.

In 1825 the world's first steam-powered passenger train journey began in Darlington, thus the Stockton and Darlington Railway is the world's first public railway.

Famous bridges have also been built in Darlington by the town's Cleveland Bridge including the Sydney Harbour Bridge.

On High Row, one building of note is the former Backhouse Bank (now Barclays), founded by Jonathan Backhouse, a prominent Darlington banker and Quaker.

Darlington's most famous landmark, the clock tower, was a gift to the town by the industrialist osephe Pease in 1864. The tower bells are the sister bells to those which are inside Big Ben in London.

The Darlington Mechanics Institute was opened in 1854 by Elizabeth Pease Nichol. Institutes like this provided leisure activities such as day trips for local workers and their families. They also provided opportunities for workers to improve their education providing libraries and talks.

Alfred Waterhouse, responsible for London's Natural History Museum, designed the Grade II listed Victorian Market Hall in 1860 and the Library was built with funding from Edward Pease, and opened in 1885.

THINGS TO SEE & DO

There's a wealth of things to do in the town no matter what your interest is. Whether you're looking to explore Darlington's market town heritage or get out and about in the great outdoors, there's plenty to see and do across the town.

Archers Jersey Dairy Ice Cream

Set on a farm, this year round ice cream parlour with terrace offers renowned Jersey ice cream on the outskirts of Darlington.

Darlington's Brick Train

Modelled on the 1938 record setting, 126mph steam locomotive 'Mallard', the 'Brick Train' celebrates Darlington's railway heritage. The sculpture, designed by Scottish artist David Mach, stands next to the outskirts of the A66 and consists of a whopping 185,000 bricks!

Darlington Clock Tower

Situated in the heart of Darlington town centre and a popular meeting destination, the Clock Tower was a gift to the town by the industrialist Joseph Pease in 1864. The bells inside are in fact the sister bells to those inside Big Ben in London.

Darlington Library

Opened in 1885, the Crown Street Library is bursting with books and modern digital facilities. The site is regularly greeted with authors hosting events discussing their literature. The Centre for Local Studies is based at Crown Street Library and contains records, maps and local newspapers to help you trace your local and family history.
